airosas

'Airosas' is the female plural of the word 'airoso'. Airy is usually used in the expression 'exit airy'. The word expressly means in a way as victorious, triumphant. That someone 'gets out of the casino' means that someone 'gets out of the casino triumphant', that is, they've left the casino with a lot of money. In the case of this, you could put the example of 'come out angry'.

buenardo

"Buenardo" is a modification of the word "good" of Spanish. As for meaning, they are exactly the same. Looking morphologically at which words had been mixed to create the word, I learned that the word was invented and popularized by a streamer called Coscu. The same goes for saying that something is terrible. You can say that something is "malardo", and it can be accepted as a word. . .

homie

"Homie" is not an expression of Spanish, it is one of English. Generally, when there is more than one person living in a house, and individuals are NOT related by blood (they are not family, that is, it can be an apartment where 3 friends live, or 4 students), 'homie' is a loving expression to call the others, a short way of saying 'homemate' or what is similar in Spanish 'homemate'

lo dejaron con los crespos hechosz

In Colombia it is a colloquial way of saying that all preparations for achieving a goal were lost. Wait for something to happen that never happened. If you want to know more meanings I recommend you look in the dictionary "to stay with the crespos made", that there you have some answers.

lovecraft

Lovecraft is actually the surname of a man: Howard Phillips Lovecraft (1890-1937), an American writer of horror and rare fiction. He is best known for his works "Necronomicon" and "The Myths of Chtulhu". Many people take inspiration from their stories by creating terrifying characters. A great example is the creation of David Jones, the captain with tentacles of Pirates of the Caribbean III, inspired by the great God Chtulhu. Currently, Lovecraft is also the name of a program to create video games (other examples to give an idea are Unreal Engine 4 or Unity 3D).

A "Millennial" is simply the designation of a generation of individuals, a person who becomes a young adult in the early 21st century. Who's a millennial? Any subject born between 1981 and 1996 (between 23 and 38 years of age). It is generally used to refer to generation, to categorize them.

In the sonatina of Rubén Dario "The princess is sad", the word has the meaning of 'butterfly'

reposicionarse

Positioning means "Taking a position, attitude or posture in the face of a public matter." or "Place or place a thing in the proper position." Therefore, REposicion means changing and re-taking a position, either of an attitude/posture (person) or of an object. You can reposition an individual in a competition (such as in a car race, that a competitor can be passed by another car or move on to the front car), in a ranking, or perhaps he is a political figure who changed position.

salsa aromática

In fact, the meaning of "aromatic sauce" is the conjunction of the meaning of sauce and aromatic. We know that 'sauce', one of the meanings it has is this : mixture formed by various edible substances that is used to season or season meals. And what aromatic means : It emanates or has aroma. Then, the meaning of "aromatic sauce" would be a substance that is used to season, and that has aroma, such as a tuco sauce, or a curry sauce.

si no o sino

It's very different to say 'if not' and 'but'. In the first case, it is used as a condition, a conditional, as can be: "If you don't eat all the food, there is no dessert". In the second case, it is generally used to explain something contrary/different to what was said: "It was not chicken, as I had led you to believe, but it was fish"

tontozapero

"Tontozapero" is not a Spanish word. This is a word that comes from the Basque and that means "dumb", as in the following fragment : Gorka tontozapero samarra da -> Gorka is a bit silly Hay note that the constructions of Basque prayers differ from the syntactic constructions of Spanish. . .
